

Name: Kulvir Singh

Register No. : 19BCE2074

Role Played: Self (Kulvir as the victim of ragging)

Kulvir is a college going student. He is very regular in his work and obeys the instructions of his Professors. He always does his assignments. This is a major reason why is disliked by his unruly class-mates Aryan and Dhruv. On one occasion Aryan and Dhruv do not complete their homework and were scolded by the professor in the class. This made them angry and they wanted to teach Kulvir a lesson as he had completed the assignment. They push him and snatch his bag and tear his assignment. Kulvir tells about the ragging to the Professor who in turn scolds Aryan and Dhruv. Aryan and Dhruv now are angry and come up with a plan to harm Kulvir. They intoxicate Kulvir before the class on the next day. The Professor gets to know about it and gets very angry. He throws him out of the class. After class Aryan and Dhruv insult and make fun of Kulvir in front of the entire college. Social media fills up with feeds of Kulvir and his drunk activities in class. This makes Kulvir very depressed. He cannot stop thinking about it and finally decides to take the extreme step. Kulvir ends the play by saying: 'There is no point in living anymore.'
